Canton, Sept. 20.—The grand jurors

for the September term of common pleas court completed their labors and made their report to Judge Harter in court room No. 1 at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The report was handed to the court by William L. Stolzenbach, foreman of the jury. After examining the report Judge Harter thanked the jurors and said that they accomplished their work well. The jurors were then discharged. The report shows that the grand jury was in session six days. During that time one hundred and twenty-seven witnesses were examined, covering twenty-six cases. The jury presented twenty-four true bills and ignored six cases. Concerning the care of the county jail the report says: "During our session we visited the county jail, examined its state and condition and inquired into the discipline and treatment of the prisoners and their habits, diet and accommodations. We find and respectfully report to the court that the rules prescribed by the him that a man under arrest at Dejudges have been kept and observed, and we do not find that any provision of the law for the regulation of the county jail has been violated. We are pleased to report that the cleanliness and healthfulness of the jail testify to the good work of the sheriff and his deputies." The jury concludes by adopting the recommendation made teriously disappeared. by former grand juries as to corridor around the outside of the cells and that the interior of the jail public are as follows:

The Prosecutor, After a Year of Investigation, is Convinced That at Last He Has Found a Story of the Chase.

One of the men who robbed Humberger's store of several hundred dollars' worth of silks, a year ago, it is thought, is under arrest at Detroit, with a charge of highway robbery against him. Prosecuting Attorney R. H. Day, because the silk robbery was old, did not forget it, but kept up his investigations in all directions, and was rewarded a week or two ago by coming upon a clew that convinced troit had been concerned in it. He secured the man's picture, and after a day of investigation in Cleveland, aided by the police of that city, succeeded in identifying the likeness as positively that of the crook who sale some months ago and then mys-

SERIOUS RIOTS IN CHINA.

Christians Killed and Chapels Burned.

Washington, Sept. 20.—China is on the verge of another Boxer uprising, which may equal that of 1900, according to mail advices received at the state department from Minister Conger, dated last month. The troubles appear to arise principally from extortionate taxation, combined with resentment against the presence of missionaries, thus justifying the judgment of the department of state, which pointed out to the powers that the demand for excessive indemnities would result in serious internal troubles in Chiua.

Mr. Conger's first advice bears date of August 6, from Pekin, and he reports serious anti-foreign riots near Chenta, in the province of Scen-Sh-Kuan, in which a number of native Christians had been massacred and chapels destroyed. Mr. Conger appears to have acted with energy upon telegraphic complaint from Dr. Canright, an American medical missionary at Chenu, not only addressing the Chinese foreign office by letter, but calling there in person to impress upon the officials the importance of an immediate and effective action and finally succeeding in causing the removal of the local Chinese officials who had failed to repress the riots and preserve life and property.

Same as Heretofore-More Open Air Concerts - Harmonia Masters Some Difficult Classical Music.

Both the Harmonia and the Military band will give winter concerts. The Harmonia may give a series, but the Milltary will give but one. Conductor Howald said today that his concert will be in honor of the band's honorary members, who constitute a considerable number. The Military will give its final open air concert in the park Thursday, October 2. The Harmonia band will render several more open air concerts if the weather is favorable. The last concert of the Harmonia, Thursday evening, was one of the best it has given this season. The members had worked hard on the music, which was of the high, classical kind, and they were rewarded by the manifest appreciation of the crowd. Oscar Puegner rendered a clarinet solo, and was encored.

Conductor Howald says that one feature of the last open air concert of the Military will be an euphomium solo by Albert Eberwein. The euphonium soloist is rare, and the local musical world is looking forward to this performance with much interest.

The Armory orchestra is organized for the season with practically the same members as last year. Harold Howald is the leader. Otherwise the instrumentation is William Ertle. viol; Oscar Puegner, clarinet; F. P. Eisenbrei, cornet; Henry Pflug, trombone; Lee Walcutt, drums; G. G. Paul, pianoforte.

"How about prices?" shouts the free trader. "Doesn't it cost us more to live than we can make in increased earnings?" The savings banks deposits of $200,000,000 a year answer, No! Anyway isn't it harder to buy bread at five cents a loaf when a man is looking for work than at six cents when he is earning $2 a day.

American financial and commercial statistics are today the wonder of the world. Our wealth of $100,000,000,000, or $1,250 per capita is a remarkable showing for one of the youngest nations of the earth. No wonder that higher price per bushel than American President Roosevelt is declaring emphatically against any revision of the tariff policy which has brought about such a condition of affairs.

Here is an excellent pro-tariff argument presented by the Boot and Shoe Recorder: We are now increasing our exports of shoes and leather, but also increasing exports of machinery. It is easy to get big-headed and fancy that we have a monopoly of brains, but a change may come when others western states will turn their attention learn to use our machinery and meth- to the cultivation of macaroni wheat ods, and they may be in a position to we can raise not only all that is redump a surplus in our markets. Then the tariff duties which are a dead letter now may prove of decided value. So it is of all tariff duties that are protective in the sense of developing production. If they are not needed they must be harmless as a burden, and if they are needed in any degree they should be retained rather than risk the troubles that must surely follow a change.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

We must conclude by a statement of the causes that we believe are drawing England and America together. We do not think, as Mr. Adams seems to think, that it is chiefly due to English admiration for "the wealthy, the successful, the masterful." Thoughtful Englishmen do not admire certain aspects of American life, and those aspects are peculiarly the outcome of heretofore they could successfully grow wealth, success and masterfulness. We believe that the approach is due to the fact that the two nations, by the interchange of literature and art, and by the frequent intercourse of personalities, are realizing that they | The yield on an average would be inhave in truth common national ideals | creased from 25 to 50 per cent, in some that are shared by no other nation; localities more likely 50 per cent. If proof is asked for, we think we can prove our point. Who is the vestigated the detailed methods of American best known in England, growing such crops, will be able to asmost respected, most loved? Unquestionably Abraham Lincoln. Take any great popular gathering of Englishmen and speak to them of Mr. Lincoln, and a response, intelligent and sympathetic, is certain. But will own. THE INDEPENDENT COMPANY, Plan For Introduction of the

Macaroni Varieties. INVESTIGATIONS OF AN EXPERT.

Professor Mark A. Carleton Promises Great Profits From Macaroni For Farmers In the Western and Southwestern States-Is One of the Best Drought Resisting Wheats.

Experiments and investigations made by Professor Mark A. Carleton of Manhattan, Kan., the wheat expert of the United States department of agriculture and cereal authority of the world, have disclosed what he believes to be a very important source of income to the farners of the United States which will in all probability result in a very large increase in the wheat crop of the country, says a Washington special to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It may also result in the introduction and general use of the new and wholesome as well as pleasant flavored variety of the staff of life.

Incredible as it may seem in view of our large annual exportation of wheat to Europe and other countries, macaroni manufacturers of Pennsylvania and New York are obliged to import a great portion of the wheat used by them in the manufacture of macaroni and vermicelli. Hundreds of thousands of bushels of wheat are annually imported by the macaroni manufacturers, for which they are obliged to pay a wheat brings abroad. Even with the wheat brought from abroad the manufacturers of the United States are compelled to use a large quantity of bread wheat for making macaroni, and it is this use of the ordinary bread wheat that makes the American macaroni of inferior quality to that made in south ern France and Italy.

In addition to the macaroni made in this country we annually import more than 15,000,000 pounds. Professor Carleton believes that if the farmers of the quired in this country, but we will have a large surplus for export, and the wheat will find an extensive market as a bread wheat. Professor Carleton states that macaroni wheat can be grown with great profit in many of the western and southwestern states, especially in Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas. It is one of the best drought resisting wheats known and can be grown in localities where the rainfall does not exceed teninches annually. For this reason it should prove especially valuable in the southwest.

Another great advantage of the macaroni wheat is its producing quality. In a number of instances the macaroni yield two to four times as great as that of ordinary wheats. In one section of South Dahota where the ordinary tention to its cultivation the wheat output of the United States will be increased more than 50,000,000 bushels per alanum in a very few y ars.

In an interview regarding the introduction of this wheat in the western states Professor Carleton said:

"It is clear that one of the possibili ties of expansion in our cercal indestry lies in the direction of securing new drought resistant varieties with which to extend the cereal production area farther into the semband regions and to insure crops and larger productions.

"In my travels through Europe I found a dozen varieties of red winter wheat and macaroni wheats that will be of special ben fit to the great plains. The macaroni wheats will be of value to the spring wheat growers as well as the winter wheat growers because they can be grown in the states from North Dakota to Texas, inclusive. The idea of increasing the area of winter wheats is of special value to Iowa and Nebraska. It will enable the farmers there to grow winter wheats where only spring varieties. "The macaroni wheats will bring profits in two ways. They are for a special purpose and sold at an advanced price, and then the yield is so much greater than ordinary wheats. have is that they are very resistant to our ordinary wheat rust."

Professor Carleton, having spent several years in Europe, where these wheats are extensively grown, and insist the farmers of this country to successful experiments. He says the people of the old country have battled with bad conditions of climate for so many years that now they have a complete system of agriculture of their

COLOR OF WATER.

Its Varying Shades Are Due to Two Distinct Causes.

Recent investigations of natural color in water show that it is due to two distinet causes--vegetable stain and suspended matter. When the latter is present in appreciable quantity, it causes turbidity and is not a real pigment. The true color or vegetable stain is greenish yellow to reddish brown and is due to decayed plant growth; the suspended matter is generally mineral and often contains iron. The color acquired by water at the bottom of a deep pond is largely due to this cause.

Experts have adopted a method of stating the depth of color in water by comparison with a mixture of platinum and cobalt, the color produced by one part of platinum to 1,000,000 parts of water being taken as the

Thus it has been shown, says a writer in Success, that the color of surface water depends both on the character of the neighboring vegetation and on the time that the water remains in contact with it. Water near steep rocks, where there are few trees, will generally be below twenty units in color; steep wooded or cultivated slopes give twenty to fifty units; similar but gentler slopes from five to 100, and swamp areas 100 to 500, or even higher. Highly colored waters are more common in the northern states than in the south. Colored water is gradually Heached by sunlight, the action taking place chiefly within one foot of the surface.

The study of color in water is of commercial importance because most people object to drinking brownish water; hence in a town water supply the color must either be removed or its formation must be prevented. The latter is often the most economical thing to do and it may be accomplished by intercepting the water from the uplands and leading it into the streams without letting it pass through the swamps.

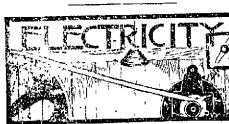

A GERMPROOF HOUSE.

Scientists Considering the Residence of the Future.

A germproof house is the latest addition to the hygienic terrors of life. It is not yet actually in existence, but medical congresses are busily and even hopefully paying the way for its advent, says the Philadelphia Times. When it arrives and we are all thoroughly scientific and uncomfortable, our homes will be single storied, without stairs, built on gravel soil, destitute of cellars, with concrete and blocks of earthenware "pierced for ventilation" placed under the floor, and the ordinary bricks "will be superseded by glazed and tightly fitting hygienic bricks."

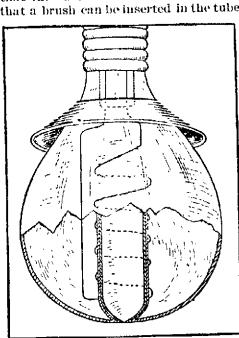

The roof will be tiled, not slated, and the windows will reach from top to bottom of the walls. The dining table will be of polished maliogany, the chairs cushionless or stuffed with medicated wool. The walls ought to be made of a cement that takes a high polish, can be stained to any color and washed frequently.

Curtains and draperies of all kinds will be abolished. Pictures will be permitted only when let into the cement wall. For artistic touches we shall be depending on "plants of the india rubber and encalyptus type." In no room will there be corners to har bor dast and bacteria, and the skirting will always curve into the hardwood parquet floors instead of strik ing them at right angles.

Architectural Art. How about an American style? Is such a thing discernible through the apparent chaos of varied local requirements and practice and individual idiosyncrasies? Surely not, if by "style" we mean a certain definite and uniform combination of unvarying details. If by "style" we mean distinguishing character, we have a style or styles which clearly set off American work from English, French or German work, however varied its decorative details may be. In every line of design the American type is clearly marked. American country houses, from the smallest shingled seaside cottage to the largest colonial mansion at Lenox, are distinctively American by reason of characteristics which are not found in any European type.-Professor A. D. F. Hamlin in Forum.

The Best Homes. The best homes are not always built in cities and towns where numerous architects may be found to execute plans to the order of the intending builder. By the "best" homes is not meant those of most pretense or costly construction, but those which are best adapted to the purposes for which they are intended, says a writer in American Homes. Generally speaking, those which are designed for persons one can reach out from the bed and at a distance from populous centers sideration in planning, because they embody all the owner can afford to expend for such purpose and must be made to conform to ideas to which the family have given many months, perhaps years, of consideration and which they can ill afford to be mistaken in.

A. J. Richeimer is certain he has won the automobile raffled at the Toledo carnival, but he cannot find the tickets to prove his claim. While attending the Toledo fair, Mr. Richeimer purchased several tickets. He made a list of the numbers of tickets. Then he laid the tickets away and completly forgot them. His list shows that he holds the lucky number, which is E-4150, but, though he has searched high and low. he cannot find the ticket. The carnival authorities are now advertising for the holder of this number. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membraneous lining and envelops the bones, eating the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sleughing and death. Awful Panic Occurred In Colored Babtist Convention. at Birmingham, Ala.

"FIGHTING" .THOUGHT "FIRE."

When Some Person Made the Cry, During an Altercation-Cries to Get "Quiet" Also Misunderstood-Many Trampled Under Foot.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 20.-In an awful crush of humanity, caused by a ctampede in the Shiloh negro Baptist church, at Avenue G and Eighteenth street, last night, between 75 and 80. persons were killed and as many more the navy department yesterday that actiously injured. The catastrophe occurred at 9 o'clock, just as Booker T. Washington had concluded his ad dress to the national convention of Baptints. The church is the largest church for negroes in Birmingham, and the pastor says that at least 2,000 persons were in the building when the stam pede began. Instructions had been issued to allow no more to enter, but the negroes forced their way inside the building and were standing in every aisle, even the entrance to the church being literally packed.

Panic Followed Washington's Speech

Just as Booker T. Washington con cluded his address, Judge Billou, a negro lawyer from Baltimore, engaged in an altercation with the choir leader concerning an unoccupied seat, and it is said, a blow was struck. Some one in the choir cried, "They're fight ing." Mistaking the word "fighting' for "fire," the congregation rose ϵn masse and started for the doors. One of the ministers quickly mounted the rostrum and urged the people to keer quiet. He repeated the word "quiet" several times and motioned his hear ers to be seated. The excited congre gation mistook the word "quiet" for "fire," and renewed the struggle to reach the doors. Men and women crawled over benches, fought their way into the aisles, and those whe had fallen were trampled upon. The ministers tried again and again to stop the stampede, but no power on earth could stay the struggling, fight of women and calldren added to the side of these steps for six or seven feet, and this place proved a veritable death trap. Negroes who had reached the top of the steps were pushed vio lently forward and many fell. Before they could move others f ll upon them and in 15 minutes persons were piled upon each other to a height of 16 feet. This mass of struggling hu manity blocked the entrance and the weight of 1,500 persons was pushed against it. More than 20 persons ly ing on the steps underneath the hear of bodies died from suffocation. Two white man, who were in the rear of the church when the rush began, es caped, and, realizing the seriousness of the situation, rushed to a corner nearby and turned in a fire alarm The department came quickly and the arrival of the wagons served to scat. ter the crowd which had gathered around the front of the church. A squad of police was also hastened to the church and with the firemen finally succeeded in releasing the ne groes from their pinioned positions and the crowd inside, finding an out let, came pouring out. Scores of them lost their footing and rolled down the long steps to the pavement, sustain ing broken limbs and internal in

In an hour the church had been practically cleared and the sight which greeted the eyes of those who had come to aid the injured was sick ening. Down the aisles and along the outside of the pews the dead bodies of men and women were strewn and the cries of the maimed and crippled were heartrending. In a few minutes the work of removing the bodies was

As many of the suffering negroes as could be moved by the ambulances were taken to hospitals and the rest were laid out on the ground and there physicians attended them. At least 15 of the injured died before they could be moved from the ground.

Most of the dead are women, and the physicians say that in many cases they fainted and died from suffoca tion. A remarkable feature of the calamity is that no blood was seen on any of the victims. They were either crushed or died from suffoca

Report That One of the Largest Firms Has Decided to Settle.

ANNOUNCE IT TODAY.

If Not, Then the Decision Will Be Made Public Early Next Week. Harrisburg Paper Claimed to Have Received Above Information.

Harrisburg, Sept. 20.-The Telegraph last evening printed the following:

Information reached the Telegraph through a private souce this afternoon that the end of the coal strike was in sight. The report was to the effect that one of the largest firms, whose representatives in New York have been discussing the situation for some time, had decided upon a settlement and an official announcement would be made either tomorrow or early next week. The information seemed to have considerable foundation and came as an answer to inquiries sent to New York parties regarding the niling of large orders for coal in this city, intimating that the orders would probably be filled sooner than was expected, because of the encouraging prospects of an early set tlement.

Shower lugy a Strike Bill. Philadelput, Copt. 20.—Daniel H. McCarthy, a lawyer of Hazleton, Pa. visited Senator Quay at Republican state headquarters here yesterday and submitted to the senator the draft of a bill making provision for the ap pointment of a receiver to assume control of the anthracite coal mines under certain contingencies. Mr. Mc-Carthy recently submitted the same bill to President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers.

The measure authorizes the legislature to appoint a receiver for the coal companies on the ground that the corporations have violated the state constitution, which provides, in article 16, section 3, that charters and franchises of incorporated companies may be revoked it the business of the corporations is so conducted as to infringe the rights of individuals or the public welfart.

It could not be learned what trans pired during the conference, but Mr. McCarthy intimated that Senator Quay had agreed to give the "iect careful consideration.

MURDERER MADE FIGHT.

Finally Overpowered and Hung, as Hackensack, N. J.

New York, Sept. 20. -Peter Hernic was hanged in the county jail at Hack ensack, N. J., vesterday, for the mur der of Barney Kanter, a butcher.

When two deputy sheriffs approach ed him to strap his arms he suddenly tore off two brass brackets en the side of his cell and getting into the corridor leaped over a partition. H. then tore off a piece of lead pine and crouching in a corner shouted that he would brain any one that came near him. A hose was turned upon him and as Hernia put up his hands to ward off the water from striking him in the face a deputy sheriff leaper over and grabbed the hand of the murderer in which was the lead pipe Other deputies quickly rushed in Hernia was finally overpowered and securely strapped. He was ther placed in a chair and carried to the gallows, his clothing dripping wet He was lifted from the chair and the noose quickly adjusted about his neck The sheriff then asked him if he had anything to say. He replied in a weak voice: "Goodby all Excuse me." The drop was then sprung and Hernia died of strangulation.

SHOOTING OUT THE LIGHTS.

An Occasion When the Old Ranchs man Saw the Trick Done.

"According to western stories," said a former ranchman, "one of the favorite amusements of frontier desperadoes is 'shooting out the lights.' I nev er saw it done but once, but the inci dent made sufficient impression on my mind to last me for life. It was at Benton, a small camp on the old 'Stake Plain' trail, in northeastern New Mexico. I was staying there over night with a couple of cattlemen, and we naturally gravitated to the only resort in town, a sort of combination of bar and gambling house, in a rough one story building, containing a good sized single room.

"The bar was on one side, and on the other were two or three 'Mexican monte' tables, over each of which were several large coal oil lamps in wall brackets. In the center of the place was a chandeller containing three more, altogether giving a good deal of light. We were sitting at one side smoking and talking, when in rushed half a dozen drunken cowboys, headed by a well known ranchman named public movement in favor of this idea. Bill Wells.,

"The crowd were out for excitement and didn't care how they got it. They took several drinks and then clustered around one of the monte tables. In a few moments Wells insisted upon making a bet over the limit, to which the dealer objected. 'If you don't turn for that bet, I'll shoot out your blankety blank lights!' bawled the ranchman. The leemit ez feety dollar,' said the Mexican dealer, and the words were no sooner out of his mouth than Wells and his gang pulled their six shooters and began blazing away at the lamps.

"About 25 or 30 shots were fired, and almost at the outset the place was in complete darkness. Of course there was a stampede, but I remember being surprised that I had heard no crash of glass. Half an hour later I went back and found the place lit up as brightly as ever, Wells and his cowboys having been taken away by friends. The roof was full of holes, but not a single lamp had been hit. What had put them out was the concussion of the shots in a confined space." - New Orleans Times-Demo-

HOVEL POSTAL SCHEME

Baltimore Man's Idea to Mail Letters on All Trolley Cars.

BIG BOXES TO BE PLACED ON EACH

They Would Be on the Outside of the Car, and Letters Might Be Posted Without Stopping the Vehicle. Mailing Said to Be-Easier Than Boarding a Car.

The present system of collecting mail from the corner letter boxes by carrier in cities is considered crude, inadequate and not at all abreast of the needs of the times by Mr. George B. McAllister of Baltimore, a close student of postal transportation problems and who is responsible for the use of city postal cars, says a dispatch from Washington to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The successful operation in recent years of postal cars suggests the query whether all the trolley cars might not be used to an immense advantage in mail collection and transportation.

For many years Mr. McAllister has been persistently seeking to promote a His efforts have attracted the most favorable public attention in Baltimore, Pittsburg and other cities, and during the past few days he has appeared in Washington as the advocate of it.

A statement by Mr. McAllister of his interesting plan of trolley mail collections is here given:

"When first suggested, the idea to most people possibly looks visionary. Only the practical details of it, which are not apparent at first sight, lend to it the aspect of genuine common sense and plausibility.

"It is proposed to provide an absolutely exposed or coverless opening for letters on that side of every street car which is nearer the sidewalk. The best mechanical construction of this drop letter opening-for a kind of use on street cars, to be presently explained gated mouth, topless aperture—that is,

"Second.—That it shall be placed vertically, at no angle of deflection whatever, to the hand of the depositor.

"Third.-That it shall extend a sufficient distance, to be determined by experience, say ten or fifteen feet or more, along the side of the car.

with mechanical parts interiorly to protect letters in the mail box from the elements freely beating into it.

means of discharging the mail from the receptacle at one point only, no letter on a passing street car would go about it in the same manner precisely as he now goes about boarding a car to ride. He would, however, not use the 'near' street crossing, or that now used by intending car passengers; he would use the 'far' crossing-the 'mailing' crossing, as it would come to be named-being thus distinguishable to the motorman as a person about to post a letter.

walk to meet it. The motorman, at a proper distance from him and in the usual way, would down brakes,' but in this case only for a 'quarter stop' of the car, graduating the speed so that the car would pass the crossing at about the rate at which, in all our cities, cars are run when male passengers are about to board them without stoppage. This will be better explained in a moment.

would be little moderated, as the time required for the 'check up,' the 'drop' of the letter and the release of the brake would be, in all, three and onehalf to four seconds. Since the 'drop letter' opening, however, would extend perhaps half the length of the car, experience has demonstrated that five persons could drop five separate letters all at different points, while the car prejudice leads us to believe that the act of posting a letter on a car in this way would be more difficult, more complicated than that of taking passage on would be something indefinitely simpler, more direct, less disconcerting to the average man, or woman either, and accomplished also with possibly a hundredth part of the difficulty or risk now involved in boarding a car. In this latter case one must remain in the street while the entire body of the car passes before one steps on the back platform, and all the while one's atconsumed in dropping a letter.

"On the steam railway system mail is transferred from road to road. An analogous arrangement would in this case place transfer agents at such points of intersection of the electric roads as would insure the nearest connection for mail 'transferred' from roads not running to the postoffice to those running there. Collections over an area of forty or fifty square miles could thus be focused at the very door of the postoffice. Retaining the 'corner' boxes, the carriers would continuously shift their small contents to the ear boxes.

"Motormen do not now find children of tender age attempting to ride; they would not find them attempting to post letters on the cars when their parents could and would send them to the corner boxes, and as to 'fire blockades,' either the mail or the blockaded cars would simply be shifted to another (even contiguous) line of the local trac-

of Flowers With Spain's King.

From an American woman has come warm defense of Alfonso XIII., the young king of Spain, says the New York Press. Miss Agnes B. Wilson of Manhattan, who returned to New York on the Teutonic the other day, was at the flower festival in Madrid and was presented to the boy king. "These stories about the young king's eccentricities," said Miss Wilson, "are not true. He is a very sensible young fellow and perfectly charming. At the flower feslival it is the custom of the people to throw bouquets at each other. I threw four at the king, and he threw the same number at me. I have them in my trunk as keepsakes and treasure them highly. I again met the king at a royal garden party. I was with a party of Spanish people, and our carriage stopped in front of the royal box. Although a boy, the king shows great dignity in public, but at the flower festival this was all abandoned, and he was a child again.

"One morning the king arose at 6 o'clock and surprised his soldiers by ordering out the guard. He was much incensed at finding a lack of military order at this early hour and warned the officers that they would have to be more strict in the future. The king is as bright a boy as I have ever seen, and there is no truth in the stories that he has a weak mind or treats his mota-

the example of what a lad should be to his mother. Time and again I saw the queen mother and her royal son together. His manner toward her was charmingly gallant. He seemed a thousand times more anxious that honor and recognition should be paid to his mother than to himself.

"And he is fully sensitive to their affection, for when the cheers would ring wildest there would often come a moisture in the boy king's eyes as he bowed. If ever a human being's eyes said anything, his said that he meant to be a good king to his people."

JEWS IN PALESTINE.

Fulfill Christ's Mission.

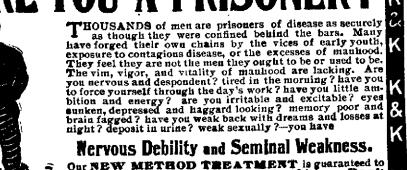

Apropos of the British agitation for the purchase of the Holy Land by the Christians of the world, Israel Zangwill, the well known novelist of the Ghetto, writes as follows, according to a special cablegram from London to

"If Christians would buy Palestine and turn it over to the Jews, then this latest crusade would atone for all the others, which were invariably accompanied by a massacre of the Jews. As the Jews would undertake to place a guard of honor around the tomb of Christ, the ironies of history would be satisfied in their case too. For the first time in history Christ would achieve his mission of peace and reconcilia-
